Ms. Kristen Hopewell
University of Michigan

New Protagonists in Global Economic Governance: The Rise of Brazilian Agribusiness at the WTO

Tuesday, November 15, 2011
Time: 11:00 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
Location: SIS Founders Room

Ms. Kristen Hopewell is a Ph.D. Candidate in the Department of Sociology at the University of Michigan. Ms. Hopewell’s dissertation is titled “Shifting Power in Global Economic Governance: The Rise of Brazil, India and China at the WTO.” Her research is in comparative and global political economy and the emerging BRIICKS economies, with a strong focus on Brazil. She has secured fellowships and grants for her research from the Center for Latin American and Caribbean Studies (University of Michigan), Fulbright, National Science Foundation, and a Social Science and Humanities Research Council Doctoral Fellowship. Ms. Hopewell has published a co-authored article examining the social movement response to neoliberalism and the economic crisis in Argentina in the Journal for the Critique of Science.

For more information contact Irina Douda, CRS Program Associate at crs@american.edu or 202-885-1760.