

Food Movements Unite!

Strategies to Transform Our Food Systems

Eric Holt-Giménez, Food First Executive Director

Ben Burkett, National Family Farm Coalition President

Monday, April 16th at 5:30 pm
SIS Abramson Family Founders Room

Eric Holt-Giménez is the executive director of Food First/ Institute for Food and Development Policy. He spent over 20 years in Mexico and Central America working with the Campesino a Campesino movement among small farmers. He edited the new book Food Movements Unite! Strategies to Transform our Food Systems, which will be available for purchase at the event.

Ben Burkett is a fourth-generation farmer from Mississippi and president of the National Family Farm Coalition. He has traveled extensively throughout the Global South, exchanging knowledge and information with small-scale farmers, and in turn has hosted West African honey, rice and vegetable producers in the United States to learn irrigation, marketing and packaging techniques from African American farmers.

Sponsored by:

