

48th Washington Asia Forum

Asia Council of American University

Effects of Foreign Pressures on Japan's Economic Policies@

Javed Maswood

Tuesday
April 8, 2003

5:30p.m.

Ward 302

Javed Maswood is an associate professor at the School of International Business and Asia Studies at Griffith University, Australia, where he teaches courses on Japanese and international politics. He has published articles in a number of scholarly journals including Japan Forum, International Affairs, and Pacific Affairs. His book titles include Japan in Crisis, International Political Economy and Globalization, and Japanese Defense: The Search for Political Power. Dr. Maswood earned his B.S. in Economics from Sophia University, Tokyo, his M.A. in International Relations at Australian National University, and his Ph.D. in Political Science from the Carleton University, Ottawa. During this spring 2003 academic term, Dr. Maswood has been a visiting scholar at American University conducting research on the Japanese economy.

For further information, contact Asia Council Chair, Professor Quansheng Zhao or Aria Bailey (202-885-1760)

