OVERVIEW

American University’s Public Service Work Study Program is a win-win for students, partner organizations, and the Washington, D.C., area residents they serve. Students gain substantive work experience and earn Federal Work Study awards as part of their financial aid packages. Partner organizations fortify their staff with talented student employees at a fraction of the cost. And local residents receive the support they need.

ELIGIBILITY

501(c)(3) nonprofits and federal, state, and local government agencies whose mission is to serve the public good may participate in this program.

Partner organizations may recruit students for positions designed to improve individuals’ quality of life or to resolve community issues. Common functional areas include education, social services, health care, community improvement, and public safety, among others. Job functions that do not qualify for this program include:

- Services to organizations that have membership limits (e.g., credit unions and fraternal or religious orders) if the work to be performed primarily benefits the members
- Partisan or nonpartisan political or election activity for a public or party office
- Services to an elected official unless the official is responsible for the regular administration of a federal, state, or local government program
- Support as a political aide to an elected official
- Lobbying or advocacy work at the federal, state, or local level

AU students awarded Federal Work Study (FWS) as part of their financial aid packages may apply for employment through this program.

COST SHARING

American University generally covers 75 percent of students’ wages and partner organizations cover the remaining 25 percent.

Organizations receive invoices for their 25 percent share at the end of the fall, spring, and summer terms and pay an average of $450 per student during the academic year and $1000 per student during the summer. Actual totals vary according to students’ hourly rates and hours worked per week.

This academic year, 2020-2021 due to COVID AU will be covering FWS wages with 100% federal funds. Therefore, no cost share will be required.
