

Rules of the Faculty Senate

Article I. Powers and Jurisdiction of the Senate

A. The university's By-laws provide for the faculty to play several roles in governance. These are performed at a number of levels in the institution. Elected by faculty colleagues, the Senate ensures excellence and equity in both policies and practices that affect faculty across the university. Its responsibilities include monitoring academic policies and regulations, making recommendations for the academic budget, and setting the general and minimum standards for instruction throughout the university. Its duty is also to represent the interests of faculty members and to be concerned with their individual and collective welfare, as well as the general welfare of the university.

The members of the Senate shall, in accordance with the By-laws, have primary responsibility for:

- instruction and academic standards;
- curriculum and course approvals;
- recommendations of faculty appointments, promotions, and faculty personnel concerns;
- recommendations for the instructional budget;
- recommendations of policies affecting student affairs.

For curricular and academic programs, the Faculty Senate will consider matters affecting more than one school or college.

The Faculty Senate and its representatives on the Board of Trustees and on Board committees may discuss and express their views about any matter affecting the university. These views may be shared with any individual, faculty, or group within the university.

B. The Senate shall have the power:

- To delegate and to re-delegate or to reclaim the exercise of any of its powers to its standing committees.
- To determine the procedures for the nomination and election of at-large members of the Senate and of its standing committees.

- To invite any person to attend a meeting and to speak within limits set by the Senate. (Guests may not vote.)
- To oversee student athletes at American University. The American University Athletics Director and other appropriate staff will report to the Faculty Senate on an annual basis (or more often if so requested by the Senate) on the overall academic achievements of American University athletes and the academic achievements of each team. The report will include, but not be limited to, academic standing and progress towards graduation.

- To take such other action by resolution as it may deem necessary and proper for the exercise of its authority and responsibilities.

All other senators are subject to a term limit of two consecutive terms or a maximum of four consecutive academic years. In instances when more than one senator has been nominated for either the at-large or general seat on the Executive Committee, the Senate shall use a secret ballot to decide who will serve. The Provost and the Dean of Academic Affairs are ex officio non-voting members of the Senate Executive Committee.

The Senate Chair has the discretion to invite any person to attend an Executive Committee meeting and to speak within limits set by the committee. Guests may not vote. The Executive Committee will meet with university administrators or their designees as needed to receive a report on activities, plans, and/or changes in policies with attention to how those activities, plans, and/or changes in policies affect academic life at the university. B. Standing Committees

1. The Undergraduate Curriculum Committee (UCC) is an elected body of the university faculty. The UCC is composed of eight full-time faculty members: two from CAS, and one from each of KSB, SIS, SOC, SPA, SPEXS, and the University Library; all to be elected by secret ballot within each unit. UCC members serve staggered three-year terms. The membership will also include one undergraduate student designated by the Student Government. The chair of the Committee on General Education and the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Studies will serve as ex officio non-voting members of the committee, and the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Studies will provide staff assistance for the committee. The chair, elected by the faculty representatives of the committee, receives one course release and is a member of the Faculty Senate Executive Committee. The chair or his designee will serve as an ex officio non-voting member of the Committee on General Education and the Honors Advisory Committee.

The committee makes recommendations to the appropriate unit(s) and/or administrator(s) regarding:

- the existing undergraduate curriculum and course offerings, including those in General Education and the Honors Program,
- new programs and major curricular changes,
- new courses for academic quality, redundancy of material across teaching units/academic units, and outcomes assessment,

- all changes and terminations in courses or programs that affect more than one teaching unit, and
- general curricular policies affecting undergraduate academic programs.

The committee does not review temporary or experimental courses offered by any unit, though it continues to exercise jurisdiction through its ex officio presence on the General Education and Honors Advisory Committees.

While all proposals require the support of the relevant teaching unit(s) and/or academic unit(s), the committee is directly responsible for the Faculty Senate's commitment to academic excellence as reflected by curriculum and course offerings; therefore, every effort must be made to address the committee's recommendations. After the unit has responded to the committee's recommendations, the committee forwards its recommendations to approve, modify, or reject the proposal to the next level of review.

In order for the committee to have time to complete its review, all changes targeted for approval by the Board of Trustees for the next academic year must be submitted to the Faculty Senate by the first Monday in March of the current academic year. The committee's work will continue over the summer months if necessary.

2. The Graduate Curriculum Committee (GCC) is an elected body of the university faculty. The GCC is composed of eight full-time faculty: two from CAS, and one from each of KSB, SIS, SOC, SPA, SPEXS, and the University Library; all to be elected by secret ballot within each unit. GCC members serve staggered three-year terms. The membership will also include one graduate student designated by the Graduate Leadership Council. The Dean of Graduate Studies and Vice Provost for Research will serve as an ex officio non-voting member of the committee and will provide staff assistance for the committee. The chair, elected by the faculty representatives of the committee, receives one course release and is a member of the Faculty Senate Executive Committee.

The committee makes recommendations to the appropriate unit(s) and/or administrator(s) regarding:

- the existing graduate curriculum and course offerings,
- new programs and major curricular changes,
- new courses for completeness of the syllabus, redundancy of material across teaching units/academic units, up-to-date reading list and other resources, clarity of assignments, rigor, and specificity of grading and evaluation expectations,
- all changes and terminations that affect more than one teaching unit, and
- general curricular policies affecting the graduate academic programs.

While all proposals require the support of the relevant teaching unit(s) and/or academic unit(s), the committee is directly responsible for the Faculty Senate's commitment to academic excellence as reflected by curriculum and course offerings; therefore, every effort must be made to address the committee's recommendations. After the unit has responded to the committee's recommendations, the committee forwards its recommendations to approve, modify, or reject the proposal to the next level of review.

In order for the committee to have time to complete its review, all changes targeted for approval by the Board of Trustees for the next academic year must be submitted to the Faculty Senate by the first Monday in March of the current academic year. The committee's work will continue over the summer if necessary.

3. The Committee on Faculty Actions (CFA) is an elected body of the university faculty. Its function is to represent the interests of faculty members, individually and collectively, in matters related to appointments, reappointments, tenure, and promotion. The CFA is composed of eight senior faculty, preferably full professors, one from each of the following academic units: KSB, SOC, SIS, SPA, the University Library; and one from each cluster (arts and humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences) of the College of Arts and Sciences. Tenure-line faculty and term faculty on multi-year contracts from each academic unit elect the unit's member(s) of this committee. Members of the CFA will serve staggered three-year terms, with no more than four to be elected in any one year except to fill vacancies in unexpired terms. The members may not be academic unit deans, teaching unit chairs, or persons whose principal duties are administrative in nature. Faculty members who intend to apply for promotion are ineligible to be elected to the CFA, and faculty on the CFA who are up for promotion must recuse themselves from the committee for the year in which their promotion will be considered. In the event that a member of the CFA must recuse himself or herself, the unit that they represent will elect a one-year replacement prior to the next meeting of the CFA. The original member may resume their position on the committee the following year. The chair is elected by the members of the committee and receives one course release..

The CFA has the following responsibilities:

- to make recommendations to the Faculty Senate and the Provost on all matters and policies relating to full-time appointments, reappointments, tenure, and promotions;

As appropriate, the committee shall report to the Executive Committee if matters need

Senate action. The committee is also charged with overseeing university policies and programs to make certain that all faculty are accorded equitable treatment and allocated resources equitably within the university in accordance with the university's statement on non-discrimination. The committee shall propose Senate action, as needed, and recommend oversight review, as needed, to the Executive Committee of the Senate.

It reviews cases presented to it and makes recommendations in accordance with the procedures specified in the section on "Disciplinary Actions, Investigations, and Formal Faculty Hearings" in the Faculty Manual. The Senate Executive Committee draws individual hearing panels from the elected members of the Committee to hear cases. The committee will meet on an as-needed basis, including during the summer break.

The committee is composed of 15 tenured members of the teaching faculty elected by the full-time university faculty, including tenure-line, continuing-appointment, and term faculty on multi-year contracts. Members of the Hearing Committee shall be elected for staggered three-year terms.

3. The AU Core Committee is charged with review, recommendation, and evaluation of all courses within the AU Core Curriculum (formerly known as General Education), and related activities to the AU Core. This will include developing assessment timelines, processes, and guidelines for assessment of Complex Problems, Habits of Mind, Written Communication and Information Literacy, Quantitative Literacy, and Diverse Experiences courses, applying those assessments to review and approve new and continuing courses, determining transfer course articulations and other exceptions when needed, advising on other programmatic changes and faculty development as appropriate, and maintaining legacy issues pertaining to the General Education program. For new course proposals, the Core Council works alongside the Faculty Senate Undergraduate Curriculum Committee, coordinating new course approval designations within the AU Core.

The AU Core Council is composed of the AU Core Committee Chair, the AUx Faculty Director, and subcommittee chairs representing Complex Problems, Creative-Aesthetic Inquiry, Cultural Inquiry, Ethical Reasoning, Natural-Scientific Inquiry, Socio-Historical Inquiry, Writing and Information Literacy, Quantitative Reasoning, and Diverse Experiences. When necessary, additional members of subcommittees will be added to the Core Council so that all undergraduate schools are represented. The subcommittee chairs will oversee and coordinate the Council's work, under the direction of the AU Core Committee Chair. Serving as ex officio non-voting members on the Core Council will be the Vice Provost for Undergraduate Studies, the manager of AU Core, the chair (or designee) of the Faculty Senate Undergraduate Curriculum Committee, the AU Core librarian, and one undergraduate student.

The list of incoming committee members should be presented to the Faculty Senate Executive Committee for approval concurrent with the Senate unit election process (typically in March).

4. The Honors Advisory Committee is charged with developing guidelines and procedures for all honors programs at AU; recommending to the Provost to accept, alter, or reject proposals for new Honors in the Major or Field programs at AU; engaging with students; and overseeing and monitoring the AU Honors Program. In curricular review, the committee reviews and approves all temporary honors courses, including courses offered on a three-year basis in the AU Honors Program. Temporary honors courses do not require full university-wide review. Proposals for all permanent honors courses require full university-wide review, and the proposals must include the Honors Advisory Committee recommendation to accept, alter, or reject such courses as permanent honors courses. When a proposal for a permanent honors course originates from the AU Honors Program, the Honors Advisory Committee serves as the academic EPC before going to university-wide review. When a proposal for a permanent honors course originates from the academic unit, the academic unit will use its own EPC before going to university-wide review.

The committee is composed of nine voting members: one faculty member each from Kogod, SIS, SOC, and SPA; one faculty member from each of the three clusters in CAS; a representative from the FDDS committee; and a student representative from the AU Honors Program. The Vice Chair provides a report of the Senate for each meeting of the Board of Trustees and attends its general meeting as the Faculty Senate representative. The Chair serves on the Trusteeship Committee and the Academic Affairs Committee. The Past Chair of the Faculty Senate selects two other committees of the Board of Trustees on which to serve as a Faculty Trustee. At the beginning of each academic year, the Faculty Senate Executive Committee will nominate faculty to serve as faculty representatives on the remaining committees of the Board of Trustees:

- Academic Affairs
- Alumni Affairs and Development
- Athletics
- Audit
