

Proof of Default Clearance

The Department of Education indicates that you are in DEFAULT on one or more federal student loans. You are not eligible to receive any federal student aid until these items have been resolved.

You may review your official loan history at <https://studentaid.gov>. This website will list a summary of all federal financial aid that you have received at each institution you have attended. Private non-federal loans and other outside awards will not be listed here.

To regain eligibility for financial aid, you need to submit a letter from your lender indicating that your loan or loans are no longer in default either because the loan has been paid in full or because satisfactory payment arrangements have been completed to remove the loan from a defaulted status. Documentation of a consolidation loan is insufficient as it does not indicate whether the payment has been received by the lender which holds the defaulted loans. A separate letter must be submitted from each lender for which you have a defaulted loan.
