

HUMAN RIGHTS ORGANIZATIONS

Amnesty International

Amnesty International oversees a worldwide movement to free all prisoners of conscience; ensure fair and prompt trials for political prisoners; abolish the death penalty, torture, and other cruel treatment of prisoners; and end extrajudicial executions and "disappearances." Volunteers assist with the following: monitoring the international press, translating, undertaking research tasks, participating in online communities, raising funds assisting our human rights education, supporting human resources and accounting programs, or loaning your own specialist expertise to an area of our work.

Oxfam International

Oxfam is a global organization working to end the injustice of poverty. Oxfam's approach is about tackling the conditions that cause poverty in the first place, rather than the distribution of material goods. Oxfam assists the poorest communities when disaster strikes, but is also working to ensure greater local resilience and the capacity of local responders and governments to deliver disaster response. They invest in programs to help people assert their rights so that they can improve their lives. Also, they work to change the laws and practices that keep people trapped in poverty and they work to change the way people think about poverty and its causes.

The Washington Office on Latin America (WOLA)

WOLA is a leading research and advocacy organization advancing human rights in the Americas. They envision a future where public policies protect human rights and recognize human dignity, and where justice overcomes violence. WOLA tackles problems that transcend borders and demand cross-border solutions. They create strategic partnerships with advocacy organizations, academics, religious and business leaders, artists, and government officials. Every semester, WOLA's new interns and volunteers are paired with staff mentors and absorbed into the work of the organization. They collaborate on a mix of research, analytical, and administrative work, and are encouraged to get involved in the day-to-day activities of their teams.
