Director, National Environmental Performance Track, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), 2000-2009

Principal architect and national director of EPA's premier environmental leadership program. Led the growth of the program from start-up to over 550 members nationally. Provided strategic direction for program and staff, directed analysis of environmental results, served as EPA spokesman for the program, managed relationships with state environmental agencies and other partners. Managed a staff of 30 and an annual budget of $5 million. In 2006, the Kennedy School of Government named EPA's Performance Track as one of the "Top 50 Innovations in American Government."

Director, Emerging Strategies Division, EPA, Washington, D.C. 1996-2000

Directed projects on industry sector approaches, environmental performance measurement, corporate sustainability, use of innovative policy instruments. Worked with such external partners as Coalition for Environmentally Responsible Economics (CERES), Business for Social Responsibility, Resources for the Future, U.S.-Asia Environmental Partnership, NGOs, and trade associations.

Director, Waste and Chemical Policy Division, EPA, 1993-1996

Managed the division (staff of 30) in the Office of Policy Analysis that analyzed solid and hazardous waste, toxics, and pesticides regulatory issues. Directed projects on pollution prevention, cross-media analysis, environmental justice, chemical hazards, and trade and the environment.

Associate Director, Office of Policy Analysis, EPA, 1989-1993

Emphasis on toxics, water, and waste issues. Represented assistant administrator for policy on an agency-wide regulatory steering committee. Directed budget, planning, recruiting, human resources for one of the leading policy analysis organizations in the federal government.

Senior Policy Advisor to the Assistant Administrator for Policy, Planning, and Evaluation, EPA, 1988-1989

Senior staff to presidential appointee and deputy with broad policy, analytic, and planning responsibilities. Worked on international issues, risk projects, regulatory policy, evaluation of program proposals. Served as policy office coordinator for the 1989 presidential transition.

Senior Fellow, the Conservation Foundation, Washington, D.C., 1988 (on leave from EPA)

Research and writing on "Environmental Risk and Democratic Process." Examined work on risk analysis, risk perception, and democratic theory to assess prospects for citizen participation.

Director, Information and Regulatory Systems Division, EPA, 1983-1988

Directed a staff of thirty. Responsible for planning, budgeting, institutional support. Worked on cross-media issues, OMB oversight, regulatory negotiation, regulatory analysis. Responsible for directing EPA activities for implementing the Paperwork Reduction and Regulatory Flexibility Acts.

Chief, Regulation Management Staff, Standards and Regulations Division, EPA, 1980-1983

Led an expansion of the policy office's regulatory reviews; managed early regulatory negotiations; designed training on rulemaking; directed staff on regulatory reform initiatives.

Analyst, Regulatory Reform Staff, Standards and Regulations Division, EPA, 1978-1980

Analyst for projects to apply economic incentives to regulation. Monitored reform issues, wrote papers on economic incentives, contributed to development of the air emissions trading policy.

Assistant Professor of Political Science, Middlebury College, Middlebury VT, 1975-1978

Taught courses on American politics, public administration, legal process, organization theory, the executive branch, regulatory policy, voting and electoral politics. Teaching reviews were consistently high; enrollment in the introductory American politics course tripled by the third year. Advised students and directed independent studies; participated on departmental committees.

Research Assistant, The Brookings Institution, Governmental Studies Division, 1973-1975
